

Strategies to Engage Education Partners

Education Partner Benefit

Engagement Strategy

Improved transition planning
(Indicator 13)

- Include processes and activities that insure that individual students are linked to work experiences for purposes of career assessment, work skill development, expanding preferences and choices about careers, and identifying accommodation and support needs that might be important in future employment.
- Plan for other partners, such as youth employment service providers, to provide services that supplement school resources and support student education services, such as job development and coaching to students.
- Plan for direct and straightforward processes to refer students to post-school services such as VR and other state agency services for which students may be eligible.

Improved post-school outcome reports
(Indicator 14)

- Plan for other partners to provide services that supplement school resources and support students education services, such as job development and coaching to students.
- Plan for direct and straightforward processes to refer students to post school services such as VR and other state agency services for which students may be eligible.

Improved graduation rates
(Indicator 1)
Reduced drop-out rates
(Indicator 2)

- Connect work experiences and jobs to specific educational interventions and courses of study.
- Provide processes for other partners, especially employers, to provide input to curriculum so it is relevant to future career and employment options.

Enhancements to curriculum

- Facilitate access to programs for which youth are eligible that support employment development
- Provide funding support when service eligibility is established

Developed from A Guide to Developing Collaborative School-Community-Business Partnerships, 2015

NTACT

National Technical Assistance Center on Transition

This document was developed by the National Technical Assistance Center on Transition (NTACT), funded by Cooperative agreement Number H326E140004 with the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services (OSERS). Opinions expressed herein do not necessarily reflect the position or policy of the U.S. Department of Education or imply endorsement by the U.S. Department of Education.

www.transitionta.org

